“ I am the hairdresser at Heritage Healthcare in Ashburn. I have done Mrs. Joan's hair since she has been there. I have seen Mr. Charles come and visit her many days. He would sit in her room sometimes as she slept. He was a very kind man and will be missed.

“ My deepest sympathy on the homegoing of Charles. Memories... I recall Charles as a Sylvester High athletic hero, neat, disciplined, and a bit spunky. He has to have been spunky to have won the hand of Joann, who gave new meaning to the term reticent! Joann, do you remember that I would call you on the telephone during the slack evening hours of my soda-jerk job at Moore's pharmacy; you would talk to me and laugh at my jokes, but not go out on a date with me!

Charles always had my respect, tho' we were not close freinds.

“ I was a nurse at Phoebe Worth Cancer Clinic and took care of Mrs. Reynolds. I remember such caring and love he had toward Mrs. Reynolds. I remember setting up lunches for both of them at the Clinic. (in an empty room--just the two of them). It was so heart warming. Rest in peace my hero....

“ Mr. Charlie, was a friend and a neighbor. It warmed my heart to see him in his beloved Air Force uniform once again. I remember vividly his wearing it each Veterans day weekend to church. He always wore it with such dignity and pride. As a former Marine I couldn't talk to him more than a few minutes without his telling me an Air Force story. Fond memories will fill my mind as I think on him in the future. Thank you so much for your service to our country, Mr. Charlie, you did our nation proud.

Mr. Charlie, husband, father, grandfather and friend, Simper Fi.

“ It saddened me tremendously to hear of the passing of a truly wonderful man i remeber him fondly as he visited his wife at the nursing home. I especially remember his coming to the nursing home and bringing roses to mrs reynolds last valentines as well as calling because he was in the hospital and asking me to go to her room and tell her he loves her with all his heart . Yes indeed heaven hastruly welcomed and angel
