“ We don't yet have all the answers to life's questions and when something happens that we don't understand, we need to cherish the things that matter the most. Cherish the times you laughed together, how deeply you loved one another, how much you cared and nurtured one another, the times you prayed for one another. May the shared times, the shared memories and the shared joys keep Lindsey close in your hearts. I pray each of you feel, in a tangible way, our Heavenly Father's strength to endure the overwhelming pain of losing your daughter, your sister, your wife, your mother and your daughter-in-law far, far too soon.
