“ I used to take walks past Dan's house up on Greenwood Street and pick up the newspaper and put it on the porch for him. One day he was outside trying to get the paper and he insisted that I come in for a cup of coffee with him and Marjorie. They were so genteel. We chatted for an hour or more about how they met, their florist business and current concerns. But it seemed like only a few minutes. I will never forget that pleasant morning with them. God bless you all.
