“ She actually went by Carolyn King. Those of us who truly knew and loved her, she was quite simply, our Meme. A few weeks ago Meme told me that she had always wanted a daughter and that God had given her me. I have been her son Larry’s partner for 15 years. During that time, Meme gave me unconditional love. She never judged and she taught me that no matter my past it did not define me. She knew my truths, she knew my past, she knew my pain my broken family and my demons. She stood by me when life was so very dark and she hugged me and loved me and said words of wisdom I so needed to hear. She lived for her family and she never turned her back on those of us she loved. She was a protector and deserved so much more in life! She was a child of God and the best person I have ever known. She loved all people, our fur babies and all living things. I held her when she took her last breath and I prayed that God now had her in his loving arms. I know in heaven she is still the beautiful, soulful, loving angel she was for me on earth. Me, Larry, the pups and kitty miss her terribly and we will honor her memory until the day we finally get to be with her again. We love you Meme. Thank you for being our momma.
